“ I only know Angie when I would go in to pick up a pizza, but the last time I saw her was Saturday and as always she had a smile on her face and was such a pleasure to talk with. I can't imagine the pain of her family and friends, but know that though I never knew her personally, she made an impact on my life in her smile and her kindness. Praying for strength and understanding in the days and years ahead.

“ Angie and I went to school together, she was a grade higher than me though. She was so nice to everyone and could put a smile on anyone's face. Me and my sister would go over to her house all the time when we was little! We were such good friends, I just wish we could have spent more time together than we did. You will surely be missed Angie but never ever forgotten! We love you and I'm sure you're watching over your 3 boys and Terry keeping them safe! Love you Angie, see you again one day! ♡

“ Such a precious young lady so full of joy and love. I will certainly miss her. She gave me my sweet little dashaund doggy Roxy and I will forever be grateful for that. But most of all I will be forever grateful for being blessed with the privilege of knowing Angie. She will be very missed!

“ Angie was the first person to welcome me into the subdivision where my dad and I had moved to. She made me feel welcome and I was so happy to have a new friend. She came over everyone morning during the summer and we would hang out for a while til it warmed up enough to go swimming. We rode the bus together and had great times with our friends on there. I haven't talked to her in a while and I wish so much that we had. When you grow up, life takes everyone different places. But I'll always remember her, the crazy times we had, talking to her and hanging out with her, taking cosmetology together!, and the bus rides. I'll never forget you Angie and I'll always love you my friend.

“ Angie and me we through grade school together and high school..... We were like sister more then cousins..... She always knew how to make u smile and cheer u up when I was upset..... Her smile would brighten up a room at split sec We was talking a week or so ago about how fast our baby's was growing up on us..... She always talked about her baby's and her husband she was so so proud..... She loved her family more then anything..... Apart of my heart is with u sis u will always be loved and thought about.... We love u our lives will never be the same....

“ I started out in elementary school with Angie, and throughout elementary school and high school we were always friends! Even riding the bus together! And after high school we remained friend on Facebook and talked occasionally! I always considered her a friend and I'm very sad that she's gone! She will always remain in my heart! My thoughts are with her family at this time

“ I grew up with Angie all throughout grade school and high school. We became close our 6th grade year when we played basketball together. She was much better at it than me, haha. As a kid I was a nervous mess when it came to crowds and our basketball games, but I always found comfort in knowing she would be there. She always helped me feel better. During gym time at school, we would talk almost the whole time. We had so much in common, and as kids, we found it amazing that she was one day older than me. After that we continued to be good friends. I wish I had still been as good of friends with her as we were when we were younger. She had such an amazing heart; she was one of the most kind, nonjudgmental, and caring person I believe I've ever known. All around she was a genuinely loving person. I have never met her husband nor her little boys, but I've seen pictures of them all together. You could see the love the two of them shared and how amazing she was at being a mommy. It breaks my heart to think about the pain they are going through losing their mommy and a wife. Such a young, loving and caring mother and wife, it just isn't fair. I am not a religious person, but I couldn't think of a more deserving person than Angie to make it to those beautiful streets of gold that are spoke so highly of. She was the truest and purest kind of person. I will keep her baby boys and husband in my thoughts and I send all the positives vibes to this family. My heart aches for you. My heart aches for her to not be there hugging her children tight and tucking them into bed tonight. Angie will forever be missed and loved by so many people, and myself. Rest easy, Angie.

“ Angie was an amazing person her family was her world. She always had a smile on her face and kind word if u hadn't talked to her in a while but the next time you seen her it was like you had just talked to her. My heart breaks for her family she will definitely be missed.
