“

Kim--thinking and praying for you and your family. Your Mother was so kind and gracious. I loved her as my 6th grade English teacher and still cringe when I hear someone saying ain't because she taught us not to say that word. You are in my thoughts!

“

Thank you Misty. Yes, saying "ain't" was worse than cussing in my household.

“ Mrs. Willis, was my 5th grade teacher. I remember her as having so much class. I also remember her compassion for those of us that was less fortunate. I recently got to tell her this through Facebook and I am so glad that I did. She was loved and admired by many and will be missed.

“ Mrs. Willis is one of the reasons I am a middle school teacher today. She broke me from using the word "ain't". Even though I do not teach English, I try to break my students from using it! :) I'll never forget the lessons I learned from her 6th Grade class.
