“ My first friend, my Saturday morning cartoon buddy, my protector and sidekick in elementary school. A Dirt bike dare devil, and he never failed to keep us laughing or entertained. On those Saturday mornings, our brothers (David & Timmy) would sleep late so he would play with me. I Loved these times so much! He would read all my silly stories and listened when I had stories to tell, and he would even laugh at my jokes, I loved his infectious laugh. Many times he would be my audience for my many singing and dancing performances - he always made me feel like I would be a superstar, unless our big brothers were around lol then he played it cool. Pooh was the first boy to call me on the phone, to tell me I was the prettiest girl in the world and when I was sad, he would always find ways to make me laugh. I had to move when I was ten/eleven years old, he came to our house some but I really didn't get to see him as much. Then we became "wonderful" teenagers ☐, and quickly grew up, I moved, and life happens fast!!! Even though, every time I saw him that bond was always still there. Pooh will always be in my heart and family to me. Rest in Peace my sweet friend, you are loved ☐

“ This hurts my heart ... you were like a brother to me when we were younger and I wish things had gone differently in life and we could have maintained that relationship better ... I hope you find the peace you searched for on the other side..
