“ Thinking of you today and everyday..James and Keisha are also taking it hard not being able to see you or talk to you..Mom you were loved very much..please whisper to the kids that you are happy and that you are watching over them and that yes Heaven is for real..JP has to have surgery soon..please watch over him and ask God to take care of him and heal him..tell daddy I haven't forgotten him..tell him we all love and miss him as well..I bet he sure was standing there with that quirky little grin when he saw you coming..I know the both of you are complete now..no more sadness now that your both back together..Please tell God thank you for giving me your love..I love you Momma

I got my promotable status and really excited about that Jayden starts second grade soon and the twins will be 4 in feb times really flew but it seems like yesterday when everything stopped and ive lost both of you. I love and miss you and pap more than you can imagine . I would give anything to hear your voice and talk to you again. Things have been kind of hard for me here lately on a lot of levels and I could use a phone conversation to lift my spirits . please watch over us all . we miss and love you.

“Granny its Feb 5th and im setting here at work . im still struggling with the fact that you are gone, everyday I try to remain strong and focused like you would tell me to so many times before and it seems to be getting harder for me. so many questions that I had for you that ill never know the answers to. please you and pap watch over my boys for me and take care of them. im sorry I wasn't able to get there sooner trust me I think about it everyday. I really miss you and pap more than anyone knows I just want to talk to you all and hear your voices. I wish there was something I could have done or someway of doing something. I don't mean to rant on but this is the only way I can attempt to communicate to you and pap. I hope that one day I can see you all and talk to you again. I really wish I could turn back the hands of time to when I was a kid and just playing in the yard and being carefree and able to talk to you all and everything was all right. even tho I cannot turn the hands back im trying as hard as I can to be the best father that I can be. I love and miss you all very much.

PS. Jayden just turned 7 hes an incredibly smart boy and so handsome he talks of you often and misses you, the twins turn 3 on Monday and are growing like weeds Jackson is still wild as ever and josh is the pudgy cuddley lover boy. I wish you could be here to see them but im sure your watching over them. Again granny and pap I just wanted to talk and let you know I love and miss you all.
