“ Belinda, I feel blessed to have had the privilege of knowing your mother over many years. She was a kind, considerate, encouraging, and professional teacher, and as I got older, she became a trusted friend. All though the years, you were obviously the light of her life. We marveled at her composure when you were hospitalized after "the wreck;" most other mothers would have been a mess, but she just told us with absolute confidence, "She is in God's hands." Undoubtedly, she is in His hands at this very moment, free of all the struggles and pain this old world threw her way. I know that no one can truly know how you feel, but I hope that you will find comfort and peace. You will be in my prayers.
