“ Margaret was such a great friend. She was always ready to share a new adventure. The lights at Natural Tunnel was a good one, the chairlift stopped and we had to walk to the top. We took 3 trips up to the Breaks National Park to see the Elk. We loved going down to Shelley Belle's on the river or just out riding in the country. When she was no longer able to get out and go, we would sit on the back porch, or in her room and share our stories, and talk about everything. I will miss my sweet friend always.

“ I loved Margaret dearly. She taught me so much about quilting....she was an excellent quilter but I honestly believe she never quilted again after we visited her one year and I made her help me make 3 tack quilts in one week. She was so sick of it. Of course I was proud as a peacock because I had never quilted before. But she also taught me how to applique quilts and do the whole thing by hand. I'll never forget how she scared me with a fake snake once. I screamed so hard it really scared her. She thought I would have a heart attack. Margaret was so much fun. I will really miss her positive attitude. I know she is in Heaven having a wonderful time with her family, but she left a huge hole in her families' hearts down here.

“ Margaret was my dear friends. I remember teaching her how to make 14 day pickles and she would eat more than we canned. She always called me her " little sister friend". I will miss her but we have the hope that we will see each other again.
