“ I am so sorry for the loss of a wonderful man. The only ones we ever trusted to come on our property was Buck and George. We allowed them to run their Beagles and hunt rabbits any time they wanted. If we saw that old red truck parked down there we knew everything was all right. I remember once some dogs chased his precious little Beagle right under my car. It scared me because I thought I had killed her, but Buck said she got all right. He would come down and talk when we came to the spring below his house. He was a good person, and will be missed so much.
